

Just The Same

by Barnaby Bright

I haven't made the best decisions in my life
I can take almost anything except advice
Every dish I own is in my kitchen sink, and I don't think I've ever paid a bill on time
But you still love me so I guess I'm alright

And I'm the kind of girl your parents warned you of Wish I could hold a steady job like I can love
And I swear sometimes I feel like I could drown, at the thought of settling down like every other good girl does
But you still love me when push comes to shove

And I pinch myself every day
Still can't believe it, when I hear it, hear you say

Oh thank God you were born this way
I like you just how you came
Oh thank God you were born this way
Cause you and I, we're just the same

I've got away of winning every time we fight
I can't admit it but you're almost always right Bless my bleeding heart and all its hurts and holes, that make me who you know, this stubborn soul here at your side Boy you must love me to let somebody slide

And I pinch myself every day
Still can't believe it, when I hear it, hear you say

Oh thank God you were born this way
I like you just how you came
Oh thank God you were born this way
Cause you and I, we're just the same

When somebody knows you
When somebody needs you
When somebody loves you in spite of you

Oh thank God you were born this way
I like you just how you came
Oh thank God you were born this way
Cause you and I, we're just the same
